For the enlightenment of those who may not enjoy an intimate familiarity with the house bill No. 95, which is referred to in the resolution, it may be said that it is the bill which prohibited betting of any kind on anything, and which was killed yesterday.

Speaker Morris of the "third house" is and Speaker Pro Tem Welling came in for a bit of criticism for their alleged tyrannical methods of parliamentary practice in a resolution read by Durham of Beaver, and understood to have been drawn at the instigation of those members who were punished for appearing at the governor's ball in appearing at the governor's ball in those members who were punished for appearing at the governor's ball in dress suits. The resolution declared, among other things, that the offices of the speaker and his lieutenant should be vacated at ouce. Speaker Morris ruled the resolution out of order on the implied ground that the officers of the "third house" held their office by divine right and could not be removed.

MORTGAGE TAX IS PROTESTED

Representatives of investment companies and mortgage brokers appeared hefore the joint committee on revenue and taxation last night to oppose the provision in the proposed revenue measures which places a lax on real estate mortgage. Among the firms represented at the meeting were the Houston Real Estate and investment company, the Utah Savings and Trust company, the Tuttle Brothers company, the Russell L. Tracy Loan and Trust company and E. B. Wicks. All of the representatives of these companies were agreed that the proposed tax on real estate mortgages was unjust and discriminatory.

The committee also discussed the proposed bill which has for its object a scenter revenue from inheritance tax. The bill reduces the exemption amount from $10,000 to $5000 and provides that any transfer of property to heirs made five years prior to the death of a person shall be presumed to have been made in anticipation of death and shall be included in the assets of the decedent which come under the provision of the bill is arousing much opposition.

positions as domestic servants in order to obtain a home and a means of live-lihood during their student years. Such a condition, he said, placed a stigma upon them for all times—they could never be rid of the fact that they had been "kitchen mechanics." He dwelt at length upon the necessity for preserving the moral tone of the young women of this state and declared that a dormitory was an absolute necessity for that purpose. He was willing that some of the other buildings at the university and proposed improvements versity and proposed improvements should go over rather than that the dormitory should not be built.

Mabey of Davis, chairman of the Bennion of Uintah, chairman of the appropriations committee, said the state was in a bad way financially and that there did not at this time seem to be prospects for any new buildings at all. However, he hoped the revenue system of the state would be so changed as to increase the receipts and in that event he thought perhaps money might be found for the dormitory.

Several members expressed them selves in favor of the building if it could only be ascertained that the necessary funds could be made avail-

After the discussion the bill was sent to the appropriations committee.
On Thursday the measure had been rejected on the adoption of an ad verse minority committee report. It was saved by Barnes of Salt Lake who brought it before the house again on reconsideration

KILLED

House bill No. 162, by Barnes, by request, which brings legal holidays within the same closing regulations as apply to Sundays, came up in the house yesterday on adverse report of the judiciary committee. Welling of Box Elder said he believed the bill had much merit and that it should much merit and that it should be brought before the house for full discussion. He asked that it be given a place on the calendar. His request was granted on rollcall, the vote being 21 to 19 against the motion to adopt an adverse report. In the meantime the bill goes back to the judiciary committee for technical amendments.

Three other bills, by Barnes, by request, relating to Sunday closing were killed on the adoption of adverse reports. The bills sought to repeal all existing laws respecting Sunday closing. Mr. Barnes explained the introduction of the measures as having been at the request of the Seventh Day Adventists. He said he believed that all classes and all the people should have an opportunity to present their claims before the legislature and for that reason he had complied with the request to introduce them.

The real Sunday closing bill, Cardon's house bill No. 78, was made a special order for Tuesday at 3 o'clock. The judiciary committee brought in two reports on the hill, the majority report recommending that the bill be not passed, the minority recommending that it be passed with an aniendment in recommending that the bill be not passed, the minority recommending that it be passed with an amendment including the closing of bathing and other resorts 'conducted for gain.' The majority report was signed by Henrie, Morris, Anderson, Bamberger, Smith and Judd. Welling and Southwick signed the minority report.

The Cardon bill makes stringent Sunday closing provisions and applies to theaters, baseball games, roller skating, dance halls, bicycle, motorcycle and automobile races, in addition to those things already prohibited by law.

WOMAN'S DORMITORY ANTI-BETTING BILL

Mrs. Cannon, Author of Bill, Battle Royal Is Waged by Supporters, but They Are Outnumbered.

There was a long discussion in the house yesterday of house bill No. 43, by Mrs. Cannon, appropriating $50,000 for a woman's dormitory at the University of Utah. After the debate the bill was referred to the committee on appropriations with the expressed hope that the committee may see its way clear to providing the mency for the improvement.

Mrs. Cannon made an earnest plea for the measure, saying that the dormitory was much needed for the accommodation of girl students attending the university from outside counties. She said the project was backed by the Utah Federatron of Woman's clubs and other women's organizations and that Utah was the only western state without a woman's dormitory attached to its university.

Kriebel made a strong argument in favor of the dormitory. He said that many girls who came from outside counties were now compelled to accept positions as domestic cervants in order to obtain a home and a means of live lihood during their student years. Such ment to prohibit all bets except those of $5 or less. He said he didn't see anything wrong in making "two-bit bets" on local horse races or foot races. The amendment was lost. Henrie of Garfield, Southwick of
